

I am now in my 18th year of practice as a Clinical Associate Professor in the Department of Orthopaedics at the University of British Columbia. I am the Head of the UBC Fellowship program for Arthroscopic Reconstruction and Sports Medicine.

We are proud to have been involved in working with a large number of International Fellows hailing from Australia, South Africa, Switzerland, Lebanon and the UK in addition to Canadian trained Orthopaedic Surgeons. Many of our Fellows have gone on to successful Academic and non-Academic practices. We hope to continue to remain a strong program for future Orthopaedic Surgeons to work within our program.

I have been at Fortius Sport & Health now for 5 years. This is the location where my clinic is located. It is the premier facility in British Columbia and Canada for integrated care for all types of athletes. This not only includes Nutrition, Strength & Conditioning, Rehab and Physiotherapy but also Orthopaedic and Sports Medicine care in a fully integrated model. I am the Director of Orthopaedics at Fortius.

Numerous professional athletes have specifically come to Fortius for their training needs including those from the NBA, NHL and MLS and CFL. We have also hosted numerous teams' training camps including the Toronto Raptors and several Canadian Olympic teams.

On the family front, my wife is also extremely busy with her career. She is now the Vice President of the Fraser Health Authority. The largest Health Authority in British Columbia. She manages all of the Hospitals and Medical/Surgical Programs in the Authority.

Both of us are very busy with our careers at this time. Our two daughters are also very busy. They are now in 11th grade and are doing well. They also have a number of extracurricular activities which include Ballet and Figure Skating.

Outside of all of these activities we stay active going to the gym for workouts. I continue to enjoy playing hockey and golf as often as possible. I also play tennis on a regular basis. Family vacations include wake surfing with the children and general leisure from our busy schedules.
